DOINGS OF JOHNSON COUNTY PEOPLE.

News From Paintsville and the Surrounding Country.

The Paintsville Herald says:

The Ashland District Conference of the M. E. Church, South, is in session this week in Paintsville and the town is full of preachers from all the surrounding towns and villages.

Monday evening the first meeting was held when Rev. J. R. Mullens, of the Russell church preached an interesting sermon.

Tuesday the business of the conference was taken up. Presiding Elder Hollister is Chairman of the conference and Rev. M. C. Cochran, of Greenup is secretary. J. M. Way, of South Carolina Divisional Secretary of Sunday schools talked in the morning and the afternoon. His talks were beneficial to the ministers and all others present.

Tuesday evening Rev. L. E. McElwain, of Louisa, preached to a large congregation. His sermon was well received and instructive. He is one of the big preachers of the district and has done much effective work at Louisa this year. Through his efforts a new church building will be erected.

The past year has been a good year for the Ashland District. Presiding Elder Rev. A. A. Hollister has every reason to feel proud of the work that has been done by his ministers, while no small amount of the success of the district is due to the untiring efforts of Rev. Hollister. An increase in the Sunday school attendance of 1000 is reported, while more pupils are in attendance in the Sunday schools than are members enrolled in the churches.

This is a good record for the district. More than $600 are in attendance in the Sunday schools of the district. New churches at Louisa, and Prestonsburg will be built this year, while something like $50,000 for all purposes will be raised in the district. Five men were admitted into the conference as traveling preachers.

During this year over 1000 people have been converted in the district and the year is not yet over.

U. V. W. Darlington, President of Morris Harvey College will address the conference. Dr. E. H. Hawling, of Nashville, Tenn., General Secretary Laymen's Missionary Movement will also address the conference.

Fred Atkinson and son Marvin were in Prestonsburg on business Tuesday. Mrs. Dick Mayo, of Prestonsburg, was here this week the guest of her brother Beecher Stapleton.

Sherman Rice, of Denver, was here last week and informed us that business was good in his section. Many boundaries of timber in that section have changed hands recently and the operators have started work cutting timber and placing it on the market. This will give employment to many laborers of that section and as a result business will be good there for some time.

Mr. Rice sold his tract of timber to the Pine Furniture Co., for $10,000. C. M. Patrick sold a tract of timber to Will Smith and Cap Collins for $2,500.
